COAL SITUATION IS SERIOUS HERE

Local Dealers Say There is No Relief in Sight Unless Strike is Settled Soon.

RAILROADS CONFISCATE FUEL

Several Cars Are Being Held in Baltimore and Ohio Yards in Accordance With Orders.

The coal situation in Seymour is growing more serious each day and local dealers say there is no relief in sight unless the coal strike is settled soon. J. M. Hamer stated today that he had been unable to accept an order for coal for over a week. He has a small supply in his yards which will soon be exhausted as it has been sold for several days and is being delivered as fast as the haulers can handle it.

Charles Moore, manager of the Ebner Ice & Cold Storage Company said this afternoon that they had a small supply on hands which will likely be exhausted in a day or so and that he did not see any chance of receiving a shipment until the coal strike comes to a head. The company had a number of car loads of steam coal ordered which has been confiscated by the railroad companies, in compliance with an order issued by the fuel administrator.

H. F. White has but very little coal on hand and expects his supply to be gone within the next few days. Mr. White stated that one car of coal consigned to him had been confiscated by the Baltimore & Ohio. The Enos elevator has several cars of coal on the road which is not expected to arrive until after the coal strike is settled. At present that firm has no coal on hand.

It is the unanimous opinion of coal dealers that the situation here will be relieved providing the strike is recalled soon. One dealer stated that railroad companies have confiscated numerous car loads of coal which will be released immediately after the strike is settled providing it does not last long enough to make it necessary for them to use the fuel.

More Seymour residents laid in a supply of coal last summer than ever before according to coal dealers which relieves the situation to a large extent. However, there are many without coal considering the number of requests being made to coal dealers. Dealers in stove wood have found a ready sale in the city during the past week due to the coal situation.

DELEGATION TO VISIT TAX BOARD

County Commissioners and Township Representatives Ask Increase in Road Funds.

ROAD ALLOWANCE REDUCED

$50,000 Allowed for Up-Keep and Repair of Roads Against $58,000 Last Year.

A Jackson county delegation composed of the three county commissioners, a representative from each of the twelve townships in the county and representatives from the Seymour Chamber of Commerce and Brownstown Commercial club went to Indianapolis today to appear before the state tax board in an effort to have the county road fund increased. The tax board has allowed $50,000 for road repair work which amount is not sufficient to keep the roads of the county in proper condition.

It is pointed out that for several years past $58,000 has been the average allotment for this work which was reduced by the state tax board. Inasmuch as the cost of having gravel hauled on the roads has increased from $3.50 per day to $5.00 and the cost of labor has increased considerably, it is the opinion of the county commissioners as

OHIO WETS WIN TWO OF ISSUES VOTED ON

Ratification of National Prohibition Defeated by Majority of 16,600 Reported.

By United Press

Cleveland, Nov. 7.—Complete official returns from 84 of the 88 counties today indicated the wets had won two of the four wet and dry issues voted on in Ohio Tuesday.

Ratification of national prohibition by the Ohio legislature was defeated by a majority of 16,600 in the counties reporting. The Crabbe enforcement act has a wet majority of approximately 29,000.

The effort to repeal state prohibition failed in those counties by a dry majority of 30,000 and the effort to legalize 2.75 per cent beer was voted down by 20,000 majority. The count in the four remaining counties may change these figures somewhat but they cannot change results, both wets and dries agreed.

Wets were jubilant. They believed that in knocking out the state federal amendment, constitutional prohibition may be deferred for at least one year. They argue it will be necessary for another state to ratify national prohibition before the measure can be made effective.

They are delighted with the defeat of the Crabbe act, which leaves Ohio without machinery for the enforcement of the state dry act. The Crabbe act was held the most drastic in the country. It made mere possession unlawful, and the principal argument raised by the wets centered around the "sanctity of the cellar," which they said could never be stocked with drinkables without danger of going to jail.

MUNCIE MAYOR TAKES WITNESS STAND TODAY

Defense Will Complete the Introduction of Testimony Late This Afternoon.

By United Press

Indianapolis, November 7.—Mayor Roland Bunch, of Muncie, today took the witness stand in his own defense in the Muncie fight trial in federal court and denied in detail the government charges of accepting bribes from and protecting the swindle gang. Chauncey Stillson, proprietor of the Grand Hotel, Muncie, whom the government charges with having been the man who carried the bribe from the gang to the Mayor and Prosecuting Attorney Murphy of Delaware county, also denied all of the statements of government witnesses.

Murphy was expected to take the stand late today.

It was probable that the defense would finish its introduction of testimony late this afternoon but the case could not be argued before adjournment. In this event, Judge Anderson is expected to adjourn the trial until Monday morning, because he is to hear arguments upon the mine strike injunction petition tomorrow.

The defense was making much of the denial by Bunch that he never knew anything about the swindle or that if he did he never knew the mails to be used. This was being done it was thought to give the defense ground for appeal to the court of appeals in case of an unfavorable verdict.

Senator Hitchcock Holds Important Conference With The President Leaders.

WILSON IS MUCH IMPROVED

Will Offer a Resolution That Will Be Approved by The Administration Later.

By United Press

Washington, November 7.—After a conference with President Wilson today, Senator Hitchcock declared that his forces in the senate would vote against any resolution of peace treaty ratification if certain of the Republican reservations in their present form are attached to it.

He did not say which reservations were specifically objected to.

Wilson, Hitchcock said, would be entirely satisfied with any reservation that Hitchcock feels justified in accepting and which would not nullify any provision of the league of nations.

The president, according to Hitchcock, expressed pleasure at the receipt of amendments to the treaty.

Hitchcock declared his belief that the resolution of ratification as offered by Senator Lodge will be defeated. He then will offer a resolution approved by the administration. If this is defeated he said he believes the democrats will favor the treaty and the republicans will favor it and in conference agree on a resolution of ratification.

Hitchcock said he found Wilson "much improved."

CLOTHING WORKERS ARE BEING QUIZZED TODAY

State's Attorney Charges That There is Evidence of Extortion—Records Seized.

By United Press

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The price of clothing was at stake here today in the quizzing of officers of the amalgamated clothing workers of America by the state's attorney. Records seized in a raid on the workers' headquarters late yesterday will be made the basis of the questioning. The state's attorney's staff charged there was evidence of extortion amounting to more than $500,000 collected by means of "fines" and "settlements."

The organization is said to have a membership of 150,000 chiefly in Chicago, Rochester and New York City. It is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The state's attorney charged absurd wages had been forced by the organization and that these unreasonable demands, enforced by threats of strikes, were responsible for the great increase in clothing prices.

Sidney Hillman, head of the organization, will be among those questioned today, officers said.

CRISIS WILL BE REACHED SATURDAY

Government Officials and Miners' Leaders Give Out The Same Opinion.

CASE BEFORE JUDGE ANDERSON

Believed That Men Will Return To Work if The Strike Orders Are Repealed.

(United Press Staff Correspondent By J. L. O'Sullivan)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—The crisis in the coal strike will be reached tomorrow, in the opinion of government officials and miners' leaders.

Rulings made by Judge A. B. Anderson on injunction proceedings which will be argued starting at 10 o'clock tomorrow, will let both the government and union leaders know just where they stand.

Judge C. B. Ames, assistant United States Attorney General, was expected to arrive here today to confer with his assistants regarding the answer they will make to the petition asking dissolution of the restraining order, filed by union attorneys.

Miners' attorneys today prepared briefs which they will submit to back up their appeal for dissolution. If the judge's ruling on the dissolution petition is unfavorable to the miners, the fight will then center on the government's appeal for a court order demanding recall of the strike order by union officials.

This will be the most critical point in the whole proceedings, attorneys for both sides agreed. Miners have shown they can strike despite the court's restraining order preventing the union officials from directing the strike. The government representatives believe if they have the additional advantage of withdrawal of the strike order, they will be able to induce the men to return to work.

CABINET TAKES UP PLANS TO END STRIKE

Indianapolis Injunction Accepted to Be One of The Important Features of Situation.

By United Press

Washington, November 7.—President Wilson's cabinet met today to take up plans for ending the coal miners' strike. The Indianapolis injunction was accepted to be one of the principal features of the strike situation discussed. The plan for settlement now revolves around it.

Before the session Attorney General Palmer talked with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, Matthew Woll, vice president, and Frank Morrison, secretary.

Leaving the department of justice, Palmer went directly to President Wilson's sick room in the White House and had a talk with the president.

After the cabinet meeting Palmer said:

"The injunction obligation will be withdrawn when the strike order is recalled. Samuel Gompers is waiting at my office, I presume we will discuss this matter."

Official Washington, following the cabinet meeting, felt the strike would be ended by tomorrow and that negotiations would be resumed between the workers and operators. The belief was based upon what Palmer said.

PROVISION REJECTED BY SENATE VOTE 48 TO 40

By United Press

Washington, November 7.—The senate by a vote of 48 to 40 today rejected a motion by Senator McCumber to strike from the preamble of the foreign relations committee reservation program the provision requiring assent of three allied powers to all reservations.

The vote was the first taken on the Lodge reservation program.

LEGION WILL HOLD BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

Members and Ex-Service Men Eligible to Membership Are Invited To Attend.

At a meeting of Seymour Post No. 89 of the American Legion held at the council chamber in the city building Thursday night final plans were made for the banquet and entertainment to be held in celebration of Armistice Day at the Central Christian church next Tuesday evening, November 11. Besides the members an invitation is extended to all ex-service men who are eligible to membership.

The celebration promises to be a delightful affair for the ex-soldiers, sailors and marines who took part in the World War and from all indications a large crowd will be present. Arrangements have been made with the Loyal Devoir Society of the Central Christian church to serve the banquet which will be held at 6 o'clock. The Becktel-Davis orchestra of five pieces will furnish music for the occasion and the entertainment committee has made arrangements for several other features which will make the evening a big success.

The membership of the Seymour Post has increased considerably during the past few days and every man in Seymour and vicinity eligible to membership is requested to join before November 11. At the meeting Thursday night Stanley Switzer was elected secretary of the local post to serve until the annual election of officers in January. Carl Switzer, who was made secretary when the organization was perfected resigned on account of leaving the city to accept a position with the Field Advertising Agency in Indianapolis.

Following the banquet next Tuesday evening the Seymour Post will give a dance in the K. of P. building and an invitation is extended to the public to attend. The Becktel-Davis orchestra will furnish the music for the dance and an enjoyable time is assured. The dancing will start at 9 o'clock.

COAL MINER QUICK TO NOTICE CHANGE

"I Think Trutona's Going to Make A New Man of Me."

Norton Says.

DESCRIBES HIS BENEFITS

Sleeps Better Than He Has For Months, Since Taking Perfect Tonic.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 6—Almost everyone is familiar with the severe physical strain to which the coal miner is subjected in his daily work and consequently most everyone can easily realize why David Norton, 66, Evansville miner of 22 Stahlhefer avenue, is so grateful for the remarkable relief he gained in Trutona.

"I believe this tonic is going to make a new man of me" Norton told friends recently. "I was bothered with rheumatism and stomach trouble and for the last eight years I've had malaria off and on. Dull chills attacked me frequently and the rheumatic pains in my shoulders were a perfect torture to me at times. I some times felt like the pit of my stomach was raw. I seldom slept well at night."

"I've just finished my first bottle of Trutona and I have slept better the last few nights than I have for months. This tonic has helped my rheumatism so much that I don't have any trouble in getting a good night's rest. And to think, I used to lay awake half the night. Yes, I'm glad to recommend Trutona."

Trutona, the perfect tonic, is especially beneficial for catarrhal affections of the stomach, bowels and liver. Hundreds have testified to the great benefit they have derived from it use.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

FEDERAL LAND BANK DECLARES A DIVIDEND

Six Per Cent. Per Annum Paid on All Stock Held by National Farm Loan Associations.

John H. Kamman, Secretary-Treasurer of the Seymour National Farm Loan Association, of Seymour, Indiana, has just received notice from the Federal Land Bank, of Louisville that the Directors have declared a dividend of six per cent per annum on all stock held by national farm loan associations. This will enable this association to declare a dividend to its shareholders, who are farmers in this vicinity borrowing from the Federal Land Bank. This dividend is not unexpected by persons acquainted with the progress being made by this Bank. Although it has been in business for a little more than two years it has paid all of its organization expenses and has placed twenty-five per cent of its net earnings in reserve account, and after paying this dividend has a nice sum left in the undivided profits.

Regular dividends will be declared in the future. This dividend serves to reduce the interest rates to the borrowers. All of the profits of the Bank go to the borrowers in dividends, thereby giving the money to them at actual cost. The borrowers will soon realize that the stock owned by them in the national farm loan association and the Federal land bank is a good investment and one to be highly valued.

The Louisville bank now has loans of more than $19,000,000 and it is estimated they will increase to $30,000,000 within the next year.

TWENTY-SIX INMATES AT COUNTY POOR FARM

Smallest Number At This Season for Several Years According to The Superintendent.

J. B. Cross, county superintendent of the poor farm at Brownstown was in the city this morning enroute to Indianapolis on business. Superintendent Cross stated that at the present time there were twenty-six inmates in the county institution which is the smallest at this season for many years. In the fall of the year when bad weather sets in for the winter the enrollment at the institution is generally increased by unfortunate persons who are unable to find work and provide for themselves during the winter. However, very few have been admitted this fall Mr. Cross stated. The average number of inmates at the county infirmary at this season of the year ranges between thirty and thirty-five. Mr. Cross attributes the small number of applications for admittance to the poor farm to the fact that there is plenty of work in the county and providing the winter is not too severe he does not expect the enrollment at the institution to be increased to any large extent.

Will Hutchins of Rockford, was in Brownstown today on business.

Mothers Need REOLO

When motherhood, both prospective and present arrives, a strength builder is needed to overcome the debility and maintain the vitality during this wonderful period of woman's existence. A strength renewer is especially needed where motherhood has weakened the resistive powers or where prolonged nursing has made too great a demand upon the mother's system.

"REOLO" is a strength renewer, that makes rich, red, healthy blood, vitalized with life-giving oxygen and the cell salts that are necessary to maintain health and vigor.

It stimulates the appetite, aids digestion—tones up the heart and nervous system—increases the red blood cells and sends through the entire body a stream of vitalized, health giving blood, that nourishes every cell of the nerves, tissues, brain and bones. Healthy blood makes the cheeks glow, the eyes sparkle and the whole body thrill with the joy of living.

We are licensees for the sale of REOLO by the Dr. A. L. Reusing Laboratories, Akron, Ohio. It is sold under the positive guarantee that you will obtain beneficial results and renewed strength or we will gladly refund your money. REOLO has wonderful tonic and strength renewing qualities. Large box (containing 100 tablets,) only costs $1.00.

DELEGATION TO VISIT TAX BOARD

well as the residents of the county in general that very little road work can be done with the amount allotted. It is the opinion of the county commissioners that the amount should be increased by several thousand dollars in order to keep the roads of the county in good shape and they have the backing of hundreds of residents in the county in their effort to get the increase. Petitions for the improvement of several roads in the county are now pending before the board of county commissioners and it is doubtful if the county will have enough funds to make the proposed improvements with the amount allowed by the state tax board.

The road fund would be produced under a levy of fourteen cents on the hundred dollars and it is the opinion of the county commissioners that it would not create a sufficient amount to meet the requirements. The commissioners take the view that if the roads were kept in better condition the townships would be relieved of the heavy expense of frequent road construction and that it would be a move toward greater economy to maintain the roads in the best possible condition at all times.

There is some doubt as to whether or not the delegation that went to Indianapolis today would be able to get relief through the tax board as the state tax commissioners have sent out notices to the county auditors that they were no longer considering tax levies. However, the road allowance matter in this county is considered serious and the commissioners and other county representatives will put forth every effort to have the road fund increased.

Besides county chairmen a number of party workers from over the district were present at the meeting including several women workers. Dr. H. Lett, chairman of Jackson county and James Jackson of this city and Representative Frank Butler, of Crothersville attended the meeting.

The funeral of Prof. F. W. Brown held Wednesday afternoon in the First Baptist church was attended by one of the largest bodies of friends ever assembled together to pay their tribute of respect to one held in the highest esteem by the entire community. The floral tributes were beautiful and so numerous that not all could be taken to the church and cemetery. The floral bearers were Mrs. Nan Waggener, Mrs. W. W. Smith, Mrs. John Tarlton, Miss Rebecca Thompson, Mrs. J. L. Griffith, Mrs. E. J. Foster, Mrs. W. T. Stott, Miss Herriott Palmer, Miss Jeanette Zeppenfeld, Miss Marie Smith, Miss Winifred Waggener and Miss Frances Dean.

Among those from a distance attending the funeral were: J. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Will Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagan and Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Shields of Seymour; Mrs. Hugh Wilford of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shields, Miss Madge Brown and Neal Thurston of Indianapolis; Dr. F. W. Brown of Louisville; Dr. J. T. C. Noe of Lexington, Ky., and Rev. Horace Spear, A. J. Thurston and Eden Thurston of Shelbyville.—Franklin Star.

Dantzig.

The old fortress of Dantzig is rich in Napoleonic lore. It was here that the Man of Destiny failed to heed the intimations of a grand council of his marshals—Murat, Ney, and the rest, that his star had passed perdition; it was here that he upbraided them for having grown soft in prosperity, and for opposing the invasion of Russia; and it was from Dantzig that his legions "jumped off" for the ill-fated Moscow campaign.

In a later day Dantzig was the background and the base for the northern shear of Mackensen's gray-green pioneers that took Warsaw. Look at the map of the blunt salient that Russian Poland made into the heart of the central empires in the days before the war, and the strategic value of the fortified city in the rear of the invading Germans can readily be seen.

NEW SAVINGS CERTIFICATES CALLED MARVEL OF FINANCE

U. S. "Baby Bonds" of $100 and $1,000
Denominations Are Becoming Popular Investment.

Reports from all parts of the Seventh district show the increasing popularity of the new $100 and $1,000 Treasury Savings certificates. They are virtually "baby bonds" and their investment value is readily seen. Both banks and individuals are investing in this new form of government security. Secretary of the Treasury Glass has characterized these certificates as "the marvel of finance," and Albert Boswell, manager of sales for the Seventh District War Savings organization, has pointed out six reasons why this term of the secretary of the treasury fits them. The reasons are:

1. They carry valuable tax-exemption privileges.
2. They cannot depreciate in value, not being subject to market fluctuations.
3. They are a liquid investment, redeemable for cash on ten days' notice.
4. They yield a substantial income, actually more than 4% per cent.
5. They are short term, maturing January 1, 1924.
6. They represent absolute safety as obligations of the United States government.

The $100 certificates may be purchased at post offices of the first and second class and at banks; $1,000 certificates may be obtained through banks or trust companies and certificates of either denomination may be ordered direct from the War Savings district headquarters, 105 West Monroe street, Chicago, Ill.

The new certificates are issued only in registered form with the name of the owner written in at the time of the purchase. The registration records are kept in Washington and this feature is a protection to the investor.

War Savings certificates filled with twenty War Savings stamps, series of 1919, may be exchanged for Treasury Savings certificates in denominations of $100, and ten such War Savings certificates may be exchanged for a $1,000 Treasury Savings certificate. The price of the $100 certificate in November is $84.40. The increase in cost is 20 cents each month. The $1,000 certificate in November costs $844. The price of this denomination increases $2 a month.

ISIS IN MASONIC TEMPLE

Piece of Ancient Meteor.

Meteorites of indicated great age are conspicuous by their absence from museum collections, and it is suggested that such specimens may disintegrate and disappear from the rocks within a relatively short time after falling. The British museum, however, has lately acquired a slice of somewhat less than a pound from a meteoric iron that is believed to represent an ancient fall. The slice is from one of two similar masses that were found in January, 1905, within a few miles of Dawson, Klondike, and that from their position deep in the oldest gravels of the district are thought to have rested there since the Pliocene age or before. From his study of the original specimens in the Museum of the Geological Survey at Ottawa, R. A. A. Johnson concluded that they are part of a single meteoric shower of Tertiary time.

Town Made Famous by Oysters.

The oyster season at Colchester England, was opened with quaint ceremonies. The mayor and corporation traversed the fishery grounds in a dredger and the mayor made the first haul of oysters. The mayor and corporation then consumed gin and ginger-bread—a custom which has prevailed since the fishery was first opened under royal charter in the reign of Richard I. A telegram expressing dutiful devotion was sent to the king at a luncheon afterwards on Peewit island. The early Saxons so appreciated the Colchester fishery that they took three oyster knives for their arms, and this device still forms the arms of the county of Essex. The Colchester fishery lost all their continental customers during the war, but the British public consumed all that they could supply. They had most successful seasons, and were able to give 40,000 oysters to military hospitals.

Scott Manuscripts.

The manuscript of "Quentin Durward"—a romance quickened during the war for many memories on the very field of its adventures—has been sold in London for £700. This recalls the fact that the manuscript of "The Bride of Lammermoor," this year celebrating its centenary, reposed for some time in the strong room of the British Linen bank in Edinburgh before passing into the possession of the Society of Writers to the Signet, to whom it was bequeathed by Mr. Alexander Sholto Douglas. The concluding chapters of the MS. are in the hand of amanuenses—the first Scott employed. The novel was, in fact, written during the attacks of cramp of the stomach, which brought the author to death's door; and it is a remarkable fact that though Scott remembered the story on which he founded it, he forgot his own work and on its publication read it as something quite new to him.

By Randall Parrish

THE tale concerns chiefly a diabolical plot by Joe Kirby (The Devil's Own) to first ruin at poker, Judge Beaucare, a Missouri planter, and then get possession of his daughter. This comes to the knowledge of Lieutenant Knox of the regular army, who happens to be on the boat where the plot is conceived. He is powerless to prevent the robbery and the death of the Judge which follows, but he takes the cause of the girl as his own and after a series of exciting adventures defeats the scheme of the villainous gambler. The time is at the outbreak of the Black Hawk War, which forms part of the background of the story.

INDIANA STUDY CLUB.

The second of a series of lectures by Mrs. Demarchus Brown, of Indianapolis, before the members of the Indiana Study Club on English History and English Literature, was given at the fortnightly meeting held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. S. Blish, North Chestnut street. The subject of the address was "Bath and Its Memories."

Mrs. Brown opened her address with a description of the location of the city of Bath. It is in the center of a great excursion country, on the River Avon in Somersetshire, eleven miles from Bristol. It is located on the side of the hills and the reason for its existence is embodied in the name itself. Geoffrey of Monmouth says that it was settled by the descendants of Enos. In his story of the city he states that one of the descendants of Brutus, namely Blatis, was stricken with leprosy, was exiled from the court and became a swineherd. Soon the swine became affected with the same disease. Finally in his wanderings he came to the place where the waters came from the hills. He noticed that the swine, after laying in the warm water were healed. He himself was also cured of his affliction and soon after returning to his home was crowned king. Later he built the city of Bath on these hills.

While visiting in Bath, Mrs. Brown was a guest at the Francis Hotel on Queen Square. She stated that almost every home in the city was famous for some well known person who at one time had lived in that house. On the front of the dwellings are tablets setting forth the names of the famous persons from that particular place.

The Romans occupied the city in its early history and built around the baths beautiful buildings, some of which are still in existence. The largest pool is 75 by 35 feet and around it is built a marble platform with steps leading down to the water. Other smaller pools are located near. Later the site was occupied by the Saxons, the Danes, who destroyed the city. During the history of the city the baths have been visited by a large number of notables and members of the royal families.

Under the rule of "Beau" Nash the improvements were started which resulted in the city of today. Rules were posted concerning the dress and manners of the inhabitants. His policy was "If you can't pay for any have the very best." He ruled the city for fifty years and during that time established hospitals and a circulating library.

Major Simpson is the present master of ceremonies in Bath. The greatest event in the city is the Easter Monday Ball.

We are indebted to Bath for much of our literature said Mrs. Brown. The literature after the reign of the Stuarts sank to a very low ebb. Bath played an important part in the rise of literature from this low ebb.

In closing the speaker dwelt briefly on the many delightful features of the Bath of today. She described the Abbey and other buildings found there. The temperature of the mineral water found in the pools, she stated, is about 126 degrees.

At the close a short informal reception was held.

ARMISTICE DAY DRIVE ON
H. C. L. START TO SAVE

W. S. S. Organization Urges Celebration of Nov. 11 by Dealing Blow to Extravagance.

"Armistice Day" is November 11.

Just one year ago the American people celebrated the end of the world war. This year they have a chance to celebrate again. The War Savings organization of the Seventh District has formulated plans to start a campaign on the anniversary of the cessation of hostilities by urging the people to enlist in a new war on the high cost of living—to start to save on that day, if you have not already done so, and to set forth on November 11 with a determination to buy only what is necessary, to help stop extravagance, curtail waste and invest, at least in part, the money thus saved in government securities.

The "Armistice Day" plans of the War Savings organization include:

"Armistice Day" sermons in every pulpit in the five states of the Seventh District, urging judicious spending, regular saving and investment in government securities.

"Armistice Day" proclamations by the governors of the five states and the mayors of the principal cities of the Seventh District.

Resolutions to be passed by labor organizations and fraternal orders.

"Armistice Day" exercises in all the schools. Every child to be asked to buy at least one Thrift Stamp.

"Armistice Day" pamphlets, showing why every one should join in helping bring down high cost of living by enlisting in the government's campaign on November 11, will be put in the hands of every family in the district. The War Savings organization points out that there could be no better occasion than the anniversary of the end of the war for the people to reflect their joy and thanks by enlisting in the new war—this time on the high cost of living.

William Mather Lewis, director of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department, recently made the following comment on the fight against high prices:

"Waste is the American weakness and waste is a contributing cause to the present high prices. The average American citizen must get in the habit of taking a personal inventory; of studying the leaks in his own financial system; of policing his own pocketbook before the high cost situation will be materially bettered."

"The profiteer's slogan is 'Easy money.' The profiteer fattens today because easy money is universal in America, because extravagance is habitual, because men are content to deal in glittering generalities about the situation and stubbornly unwilling to face the matter personally."

Armistice Day gives everyone the opportunity to "face the situation personally" by enlisting in the savings campaign of the government. Among the slogans suggested for this campaign are:

Work, Save, Succeed (W. S. S.)
Buy only what you need.
Put Liberty Bond interest in W. S. S. Start Saving Armistice Day.

Police your own pocketbook; save.
November 15 is one of the biggest of the Liberty Bond interest pay-days. Then Uncle Sam will pay out to the investors in that class of government security a total of more than $148,000,000 in interest. On that date you have a chance to "TURN YOUR INTEREST INTO PRINCIPAL" by re-investing it in War Savings Stamps or the new Treasury Savings Certificates of $100 and $1,000 denominations.

On Armistice Day complete the ranks of the national army mobilized to fight the high cost of living to a finish.

Billy gave me a vicious grunt and strode across the room—he wanted to say something ugly to me but he didn't dare, seeing how I held his fate in my hands.

"Oh, Billy!" I cried, suddenly remembering the latest news, "she brought back the diamonds last night!"

"Claire came back? Good heavens!" he sank into the chair.

"Claire? Of course not. Mrs. Delario." And I told him how she'd been whipped in and out like a spook while he and Claire were going down in the elevator. Then for the first time I showed him the diamonds.

"Love and pumpkins!" he ejaculated, overcome by the sight. "Well, if this doesn't beat the 'Arabian Nights'! Are they real—real? Not paste? Why, if they're real they're worth about a million dollars!"

"And haven't I been telling you that all along?" I asked testily. Billy's words and tone gave it pretty well away that he hadn't believed it all along, no matter what I'd said and he'd pretended.

"Yes, I think you have," he admitted, rather stammeringly. "But of course—you realize that a million dollars is a—er—a pretty big order for a chap in New York to eat at a sitting." He spread them out on his hand, muttering to himself. Finally he brought out: "And you've got these—here!" all alone in the flat with you! Well, save my shoestrings! I don't wonder your nerves are on edge!"

I let this pass about my nerves and gave him the story she'd told me Sunday morning—about the mahatma sending her these diamonds through the air and putting them in her slipper; and how she claimed them, absolutely, religiously, as hers.

"The woman's crazy," was the curt way he disposed of her, and added, to mitigate this harsh judgment, "Or else she's a thief."

"She's neither one thing nor the other," I defended sharply. "She's merely deluded—the same as tens of thousands of other people have been deluded about things they believed in."

"Crazy," he repeated with conviction.

I could only shrug—all I've ever been able to do; that was my incurable belief! I wasted no more time on it then, for our question was what to do next, and I went on to tell him how I'd decided to take his advice and lay the matter before the president.

To my astonishment, instead of the warm commendation I'd expected from Billy at taking the advice he'd urged on both my duty and my common sense not forty-eight hours before—and remember, I'd barely restrained him from rushing off on the midnight train—he popped out of his chair and began excitedly pacing the floor. His first words were, "Why, you can't do that!"

"Oh, I see all the risks I'm running of getting there alive."

"Risks?" he echoed, as if he hadn't given them a thought. "But how much are you going to tell about this affair?"

"Everything, of course—I mean everything I know. The government will have to undertake to find out the rest."

He plunked himself in front of me and demanded, "You aren't going to let Miss de Ravenol get dragged into a mess like this, are you?"

I didn't answer immediately, and he ramped on, "I ask you—are you going to do it? Are you going to be party to such a—such an outrage?"

"If I don't put the case to the president what am I to do? Here I am saddled with the diamonds—"

"Well, just keep them yourself," he bluntly offered, as his solution of the difficulty. "Keep them—put them in the safe deposit—and let things take their course."

For a minute I was really angry, and rapped out, "If I thought you were serious, Billy, I'd ask you to leave the house. Your suggestion is that I frankly become a thief, and your solution is not only criminal but—idiotic. What would it accomplish?—with so many people knowing?"

"Well—say—promise me one thing," he pleaded. "You'll wait—you won't try to see the president today—you won't rush off without telling me you're going."

I was willing to grant this and suggested that he go down to the hotel at once and see how Claire was.

"You'll not come?" he asked, taking his hat, and I detected very mixed feelings in his question: there was a good chance he might not see her at all unless I went with him.

"How can I go off and leave these things alone in the house?" I pointed to the blue box.

At that moment the front bell rang and I found George glued to the button to tell me, "Why, thez a gentleman downstairs say he like to see you, but he don't give no name, an' I tell him I can't say if you's home er out, but I'll go up an' see."

"Has he ever been here before?" These are the times when I appreciate George's virtues!

"No'm—he ain't never called here before—fer you ner nobody. He tried to crowd into the car an' come along up with me, an' I tell him if he don't stay where he is till I find out is you home he don't find out at all, and George grinned as if he saw a quarter dangling over my left shoulder.

"That's right, George," I was warmly encouraging. "Tell him I'm not at home. That's positive—don't come up again to see if maybe I've come home," and while I gave all these instructions Billy came ramping along the hall. "Hello, George—wait—I'm going down," and with a quick, "See you later," he was out of sight.

I don't know what instinct prompted me to it, but after I'd closed the door and gone back to my study I retraced my steps and put on the chain-bolt.

A pretty kettle of fish! I had made up my mind to lay the case before the president, but then—as Billy said—ruin a young girl's life! If I told anything I'd have to tell all.

George rang. He was apologetic, but had the offish air of having received compensation for my scolding.

"Why, that gentleman downstairs, he says—soon as I tell him you ain't home—he says ain't you in, or is you out—"

"I told you positively that I was not at home."

"Well, I told him that—that's why he ask me is you not at home or is you out? An' he says fer me to go up again with this here—" and he thrust a sealed envelope into my hand through the crack of the door, which was still on the chain-bolt.

Mechanically—as people will do those things without thinking of the possible consequences—I tore open the flap and read:

"Mademoiselle de Ravenol has disappeared."

That was all—no signature or anything—and the paper looked like a leaf torn from a notebook and hastily scribbled in pencil.

I made an exclamation and was in the very act of telling George to bring the man up at once, when the queerest feeling came over me—intuition, warning, whatever you choose to name it—a feeling of danger, and that this was what the detectives call a plant for me. It was George who recalled me to my senses by asking, "Shall I fetch him up?"

"No—certainly not. You've already told him I'm not at home."

"But he says—if you's out I'm to fetch back the letter to him, an' when I don't fetch it back he asks me, ain't you in, an' if you ain't in where's the letter?"

True—and aptly argued! "Why didn't you tell me that in the first place?" I demanded, wondering at my own stupidity that I hadn't seen it myself in the first place.

"I ain't think of it," said George. "Oh, well—it doesn't matter anyway," I soothed. "Just tell him again I'm not at home, and if he says anything more repeat it—and keep on repeating it till he goes for I won't see him. But, George"—this I said sternly—"if you bring that man up—after what I've said to you—you needn't say good morning to me next Sunday."

George understood the allusion—I always give him a quarter on Sunday morning when he brings the paper up. He grinned and departed.

"Now, what new dodge is this?" I cogitated, carrying the paper to my study and examining it in the light. The writing was distinctly foreign—French or German in the "r's." The "mademoiselle" also suggested a foreigner.

The bell rang. I sat down. The bell rang again. I put my feet on a hassock, turned up my nose slightly, smiled and sat still. The door was pounded—not furiously, but with evident determination—and the bell rang again.

At this I thought I'd better show a sign of life, so I went and called through without opening.

"Stop that noise!" I commanded angrily. Noise stopped.

Both persons waited for the other to say something. As the opposite side didn't I called through again, "Who is it?"

"Police detective."

The words were kissed through in a stage whisper, and I noticed a foreign accent on "police." I thought I might as well look at him, anyway—which I did through the crack without removing the chain-bolt. I saw a rather short, very slight man—pongy colored, to be accurate—with an intelligent, honest-looking face, but very common clothes—cheap ready-made overcoat and hat. Yet the man had very much of an air about him.

"Well?" said I in as welcoming a tone as I could.

"I wished to see you about Mademoiselle de Ravenol—the young lady who crossed in the steamer with you."

"Well?" said I.

"She has disappeared."

"Well?" And this last from me left him quite in the air, as I saw by his frown. However, he made a fresh start:

"Mademoiselle de Ravenol crossed in the same steamer with you about two weeks ago, did she not?"

"She may have."

"Her name is on the passenger list with yours—I have the list here"—he produced some papers, but apparently did not find that he had the list, and with a gesture of impatience appealed to me—"I am correct, am I not—she crossed with you on the same steamer?"

"What have I to do with that?" I asked curtly, wondering what he was driving at; for of course I knew Claire hadn't disappeared since last night, and if she had he wouldn't be asking me about the steamer. "Dozens of people crossed on the same steamer with me."

"Naturally," he admitted, trying to be pleasant. "But this Mademoiselle de Ravenol—she crossed in your care, did she not?"

"She did not."

"She did not?" he asked in a surprised sort of way, as if he thought I was lying. "In whose, then, may I ask?"

I merely shrugged, as though to tell him, "Find out for yourself." Seeing it he did not pursue that line but tried this: "You saw a good deal of her on the steamer, did you not—talked with her frequently?"

I ignored this last and told him, "But I have no information to give you! Nothing at all. She did not come over with me—I had no charge of her—no responsibility for her actions on board the steamer, or for her being met or not met or anything else."

"Certainly. I understand." He gave the door a little push as a hint to me. "But do you not see that you might furnish me with a valuable clue?" He gave the door a harder push, and as it clicked on the chain-bolt he repeated, "If you allow me to enter that we may discuss this in private—"

I thought I saw myself letting a strange man enter with all those diamonds loose in a box with pens! And at the thought of them I saw that this might be only another plot of monsieur's!

I looked at him in a way that made him think I was considering my responsibilities, and then I asked as casually as I could, "But at what time did she disappear?"

"Ah, that is the question—when?" he cried, giving a tragic—or what he meant to be tragic—gesture to show how utterly the girl had vanished.

And he stopped to consider what he should tell me next, and I, seeing no chance to catch a clue for myself, added, "If you are simply free-lancing in the case I should not feel justified in discussing her with you—but if her father is employing you—if it is he who has put the case in your hands—that is a different matter, and I see no objection to telling you all I know."

He took the bait, hook and sinker!

"It is her father who has placed the matter in my hands," he replied convincingly; and at the same time he gave the door a shove as if to say, "Now you must let me in!" and dropping his voice to a whisper: "You will understand also why the greatest secrecy must be maintained!"

"Oh, of course. Now, when did she disappear?"

I got this off in a tone to indicate that I was thawing out. Not lost on him! He answered with a quick but vague, "Shortly after landing."

"You don't say!" I exclaimed, wishing to seem shocked and trying to keep back a laugh at the way he'd given himself away. But the next moment I realized that the fellow could have no possible connection with monsieur.

It came over me with a rush that this was a plot against Claire herself! Was it to kidnap her and hold her for ransom? Her California grandfather, now dying, was reputed many times the millionaire. Or was this the counterplot of some other nation against Germany for the possession of Mexico?—an effort to strike at De Ravenol, the emperor's messenger, through his daughter and put a spoke in the treaty?

I experienced a positive shock as this situation burst on me. I must get rid of this detective immediately, yet not let him guess what I was now fairly certain of, so I told him with affected cordiality, "I see just how it is—and that you wish to keep this secret as long as possible. I'm sorry—but it isn't convenient for me to receive you at this moment."

"Can you make it this afternoon?" he asked.

"Not very well—unless you wish to meet a reporter from one of the big dailies." I gave him a look that said, "That's what I'm trying to avoid for you."

He started slightly and hastily begged me, "Do not let the press get hold of this! I have spoken to you in confidence—I felt I might trust you."

"Certainly. Tomorrow at nine will be safe I think. Shall I expect you?"

I saw he was about to demur at this, but the rumbling of the elevator, coming nearer and nearer, had attracted his attention. The top of the car showed up at our door.

"Nine," he whispered, giving me a signal to be silent; and with that he slipped noiselessly to the stairs—the way he had come up—and disappeared.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Training Little Children

(By Walter Gilman Page)

Early Art Training in the Home for Our Children.

Art has been called the hand-maiden of religion, so why should we not bring into child life all the riches which art has to offer? Every parent knows the child's interest in all things pictorial. If a father can draw, even crudely, some common object of our daily life, he will have plenty of opportunity to exercise whatever talent he may possess along this line.

All children love to draw and paint, it is an instinctive form of self-expression and not enough attention is given to the appeal which art makes to little people.

No one of us forgets the pictures which hung on the walls of our father's home, and no one can calculate the influence which such pictures have exercised over us. Let us place before our children the lovely reproductions of the great masters, which we may now obtain at small cost and many of which are so childlike as to appeal immediately to all children.

In these times it is not difficult to use the pictorial, for many magazines and newspapers contain some good pictures. Every child's thoughts and ideals should be formed on what is beautiful and worth while in art, music and literature.

While a certain amount of attention is given to the value of pictorial art in the schools, the parent can supplement this by commencing to collect from the newspapers and magazines much that would appeal to the child, and, with the aid of a scrapbook, considerable general information can be instilled with little effort.

A child never tires of a story and every picture has in itself the germ of one. The child's interest is easily aroused, and he absorbs far more than we realize. Long before the time arrives for reading, writing and arithmetic, he may acquire a liberal education through pictures and the stories which Daddy has woven about them.

Much enjoyment of the great works we see in our art museums is taken from us because we are unable to appreciate art, for the reason that in our earliest and most impressionable years no attention was given to our natural interest in the pictured world, and one cannot plunge into the atmosphere of real art at a bound.

Why do parents exhibit with pride little John's first crude attempt at picture-making and let it go at that?

It should be a guide post for their own attitude toward the child and lead them to cultivate this perfectly natural form of expression. Every parent is able to open up a new world to his child by careful and judicious use of the material which comes easiest to his hand.

The following list of books may be helpful to parents: "Teaching Children How to Draw," by Walter Sargent; "Fine and Industrial Arts," by Walter Sargent; "First Step in the Enjoyment of Pictures," by Maude L. G. Oliver (published by Henry Holt & Co.); "Play Life in the First Eight Years," by Luella Palmer. See chapter on "Manual Play."

Help to reach all the parents of the country by cutting this out and passing it on to a friend.

Coffee Without Sugar

If the sugar shortage teaches a greater appreciation of sugarless coffee it will perform a real service. Good coffee, especially when served "black" without cream, needs no sugar. Connoisseurs know this, but the average American loads his cup with sugar and thereby loses the true coffee taste.

The habit of making coffee excessively sweet is due in part to faulty brewing which produces a bitter flavor. The wider use of coffee without sugar, or with little sugar, should help correct the careless and erroneous methods of preparation far too prevalent in American households.

The sugar famine also calls attention to the merits of coffee as a flavoring for desserts made without cane sugar. The principal sugar substitutes are honey, maple syrup, molasses and corn syrup all of which are decidedly distinct in flavor and so must be used with a flavoring agent which not only blends, but is strong enough to disguise the taste of the substitute.

Coffee may be used especially well with any of these substitutes in the making of a wide variety of desserts. Further, if left-over coffee is used, it may in many recipes replace part of the milk, making possible a distinct saving.

All measurements are level.

SUGARLESS COFFEE GELATINE

Barely cover one and a half tablespoonfuls of gelatine with cold water and let it stand for five minutes. In the meantime, combine two and a fourth cupfuls of strong coffee, three-fourths cups of corn syrup and a few grains of salt, and bring to boiling point. Add the soaked gelatine and one-third teaspoonful of vanilla, and turn the mixture into a mould to stiffen.

COFFEE HONEY CUSTARD

Combine one cupful of strong coffee with three cupfuls of milk. Beat together three eggs, six tablespoonfuls of honey, a few grains of salt and three drops lemon extract. Add the coffee mixture, transfer to custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake until the custards are firm in the center.

COFFEE MAPLE ICE CREAM

Combine one cupful of very strong coffee with two cupfuls of light cream, one and an eighth cupfuls of maple syrup, a few grains of salt, an egg yolk and one and a half teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Freeze in an ice cream freezer, in three parts of cracked ice to one of rock salt.

COFFEE TAPIOCA CREAM

Combine one-half cupful of condensed milk, a few grains of salt, two cupfuls of boiling water and a cupful of strong coffee in a double-boiler. Stir until well-blended, then add a third cupful of thick-cooking tapioca. Cook until the latter is translucent, then beat two egg yolks, add a little of the tapioca mixture to them and stir this into the original mixture. Stir for a few moments, add a few drops of vanilla and pour the pudding into the beaten whites of the eggs, keeping it fluffy. Serve very cold.

COFFEE GINGER CAKE

Beat an egg in a mixing bowl and stir into it a cupful of molasses, three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening, two teaspoonfuls of boiling coffee. Then beat in one and three-fourths cupfuls of sifted flour, transfer to a well-oiled dripping pan, and bake thirty-five minutes in an oven at 350 degrees F. Serve warm with butter, or hot or cold with whipped cream, which has been sweetened with a little honey and flavored with a few drops of lemon juice.

Stews and Broiling

STEWES.

Stewing or boiling may be well applied to the cheaper cuts of meat. Braising, followed by the addition of cold water and gentle boiling, or plunging into boiling water and keeping it hot for fifteen minutes, hardens the albumen on the surface and prevents the escape of juices. After this stage the mixture should only be allowed to simmer. Hard boiling makes meat stringy and hard. If rice is cooked in the mixture it tends to improve the appearance.

Attractive flavors may be given to the mutton by the use of vegetables and herbs. Turnips, carrots, onions, sweet pepper, lima beans, parsley and the herbs that flavor roasted and broiled meat offer variety. The use of all-spice will aid in the seasoning.

BROILING.

In broiling chops or steaks two things must be remembered: First, to turn the meat frequently in order to retain the juices; second to avoid inserting a fork. The best broiling is done over a fire of charcoal or wood coal, although gas or a hot coal fire produce very desirable results. Frying in a pan should be avoided whenever broiling may be resorted to, as frying removes the juice and flavor from the meat. A double boiler is very convenient and avoids the use of a fork. In the use of this best results are obtained by turning every ten seconds. In using gas oven a broiler over a pan makes it possible to save the juices for gravy. After broiling the use of a little butter improves the flavor.

ART NEEDLEWORK

by Edith M. Owen

INFANT JACKET

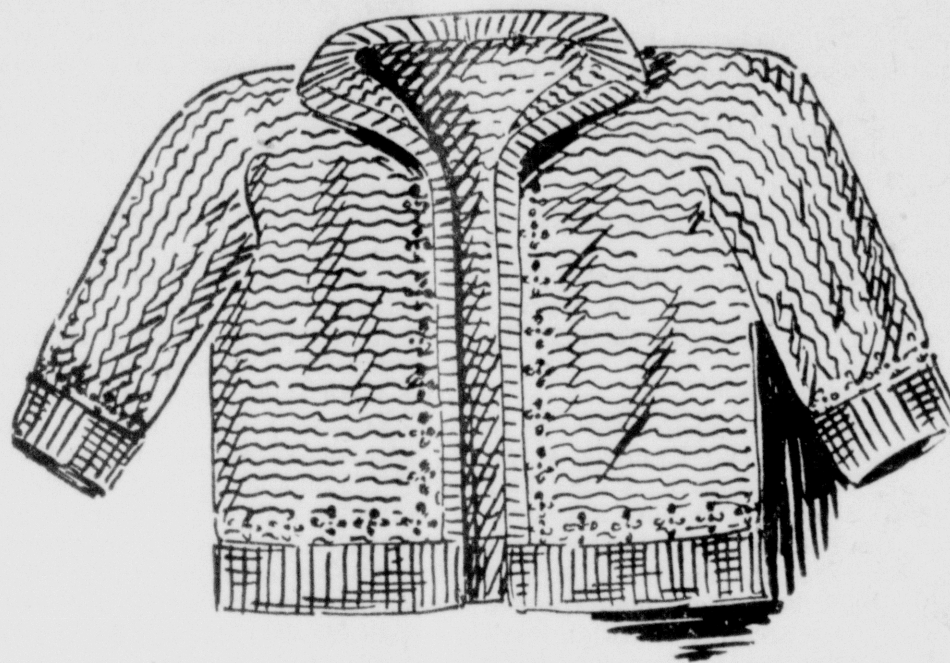

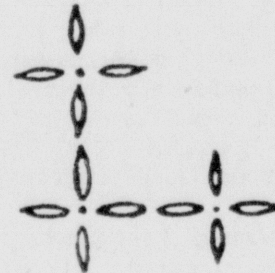

Three fold Saxony yarn and knitting needles No. 4 are used. Cast on 76 stitches, knit plain eight inches. Cast on 44 inches for sleeves on both sides making 164 stitches in all. Knit four inches. Knit 70 stitches on a spare needle, bind off 24 stitches, knit remaining 70 for one inch over the shoulder. Cast on 14 stitches at center front, knit four inches, bind off 44 stitches, knit eight inches. Make second front in like manner and sew under arm seams.

With one wool thread and one silk thread and knitting needles No. 6, pick up stitches on center front edges, knit one and purl one, for one inch, bind off. In same way pick up stitches around entire bottom, knit one and purl one, two inches, bind off.

Collar: Pick up stitches around neck, knit one and purl one, four inches.

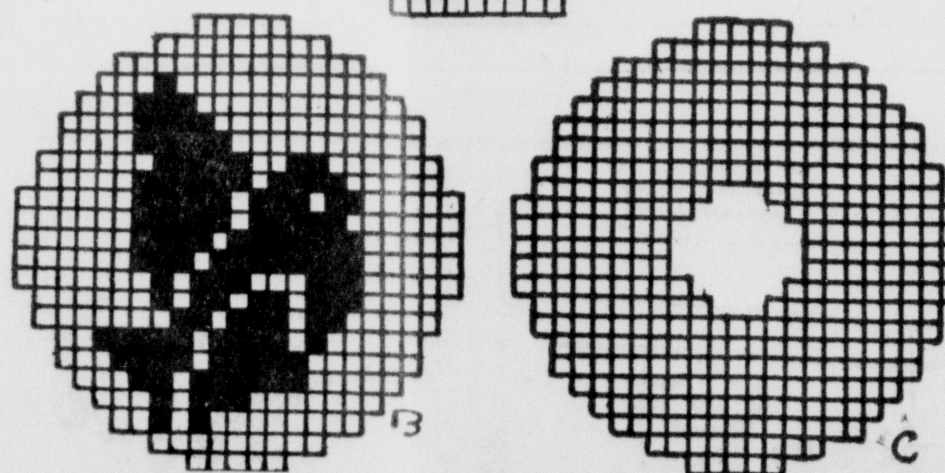

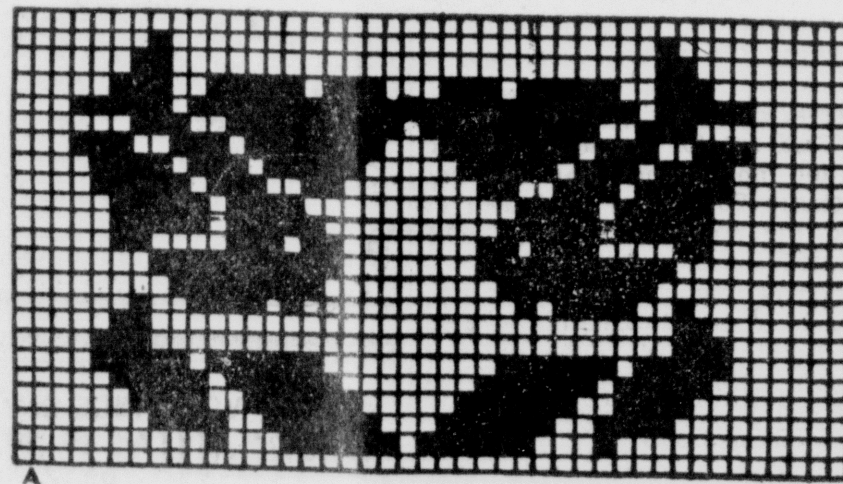

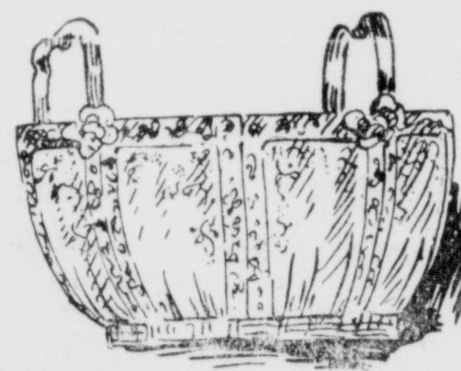

Cuff: Pick up stitches around bottom of sleeves, knit one and purl one, three inches.

With the silk made the little flowers in simple loop stitch and French knots on the center fronts, bottom of sweater and sleeves. Fasten with ribbon.

ATTRACTIVE CAMISOLE

For those who are now interested in the making of Christmas gifts this pretty camisole of lace insertion and embroidered sections will be pleasing because of its simplicity. The embroidered sections of silk are in French knots, loop stitch and outline. Ribbons straps and rosettes finish the camisole.

PUFF BOX AND HAIR RECEIVER

The covers for the puff box and hair receiver are practically the same except the cover to the hair receiver "C" has the opening in the top instead of the blue bird. The opening is formed by crocheting to the open, then one side, break thread, crochet second side, join two sides and finish cover. The narrow insertion is the edge to the covers. The side of the box can be made any length desired to fit the top. The tops can be increased by the addition of blocks on all sides of circle. The pieces are put together with a single crochet. The edges are finished with a single crochet and picot edge. Pasteboard may be used to form the cylinder and lined with silk or cotton No. 60.

Putting Away Summer Clothes

The organdies, palm beach, the straw hats, and the low shoes are fast disappearing from the day-to-day wardrobe. The wise housewife does not let them stay in the overcrowded closet to take up valuable space and brush against the velvets, serges and broadcloths. Neither does she lay them away in any condition they happen to be in after their last appearance. Instead, she puts them away carefully cleaned and treated so the least change possible will come to them, keeping a record of what supplies there are and where she puts them in order that she may find them when the occasion arises by simply looking at her desk reports. If packed in boxes, a label on each box telling the contents makes the finding of each article an easy matter. Her outline of treatment would be very nearly like the following, according to home economics specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Washable white clothing.—Washed carefully, no starch added, blued more than usual to avoid a yellow appearance when spring unpacking comes. Hung in a closet reserved for this particular use or folded so that the creases will correspond as far as possible with the folds into which the garment falls in use and laid in a trunk or box.

Washable colored clothes.—Washed, unstarched, turned wrong side out and hung in the closet or packed away as were the white garments.

Palm Beach suits.—Cleaned and put in a separate box, carefully folded.

Hats.—How to treat the summer hat depends much upon the material. If of straw, brushing off all dust and packing in a hat box is good treatment. The Georgette and lace hats, if soiled, should be dry cleaned and allowed to air thoroughly before wrapping in tissue paper and storing away in a hat box. Avoid weight which will crush the trimming.

Shoes.—The pumps and oxfords should be cleaned and put away with shoe trees in each one.

Inventory should be simple, of course, but definite, giving a list and storage place of the clothes for each member of the family. This will prove of definite service when next spring's clothing budget requires thought and time.

Roasting

Roasting or baking any meat retains within the meat the juices and flavor that make it most palatable. Salt and pepper rubbed into the meat prior to the roasting or a mixture of two tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of pepper may be used. These quantities are for an eight-pound roast. The roast should be put into a hot oven. After the roast has been browned, which keeps in the juices, a cooler fire may be used. These quantities are for an eight pound roast. The roast should be put into a hot oven. After the roast has been browned, which keeps in the juices, a cooler fire may be used. If using a gas oven or the meat lacks fat, add a little water. A general rule that will simplify judging the time is to allow twelve to 15 minutes per pound of roast after it has been allowed 15 minutes to heat through. Unless double roaster is used baste every fifteen minutes.

When cooked remove the roast, drain off the fat, add to the browned stock in the bottom of the pan four level tablespoonfuls of flour; blend well together, add three cups of cold water and stir well from the bottom until boiling. Serve on a hot platter with hot dishes while it is still hot.

If the roast is to be stuffed, the following recipes for dressing may be used:

Mashed Potato Stuffing

Two parts mashed potatoes seasoned, 1 part dry bread crumbs, onion minced; sage. Mix thoroughly together and add milk to moisten.

Lamb Dressing

One and half-pints stale bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon sage, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 1 teaspoon sweet marjoram. Salt and pepper. Few drops of onion juice. Soak the bread in cold water. Press out nearly all the water and add the other ingredients.

Dear Miss Jewett: Will lemon juice remove freckles? How should it be applied?

Equal parts of lemon juice and ammonia will remove freckles. Apply with a soft cloth. Leave on the face for five or ten minutes and then rinse with first warm water and then cold. Use every day until freckles disappear.

Dear Miss Jewett: Is it proper for a girl to ask a young man friend to call on her or should he request to call? Is it proper for a girl of 15 to order near beer in an ice cream parlor?

It is all right for the girl to tell the young man she would be glad to have him call and see her, but she should leave it to him to make the definite appointment. Near beer is perfectly harmless and if you like it, there is no reason why you should not order it.

Dear Miss Jewett: I have bobbed hair which is slightly wavy around my face. Could you tell me of a way to make it wavy in back without making it appear unnatural?

Put your "back hair" up at night on old fashioned kid curlers. They give the hair the most natural looking wave I know of and they do not cut or break the hair as the steel curlers do.

Dear Miss Jewett: Should a girl of seventeen have to ask her parents every time she goes out with a boy? Should you thank a boy when he gives you candy? I have to work hard all week and on Saturday and Sunday I stay at home while all my neighbor girl friends go to town or to church. My folks object to my keeping company with young men and they will not take me anywhere. Do you think this is right? How can I make myself attractive? I am rather stout. When introduced to a boy, what should a girl say?

Yes, your parents should know when and where you go with boys. Certainly she should thank the boy when he gives her candy. Your parents are not quite fair to you not to allow you the little pleasures that girls of your age should have. Perhaps your parents think you are too young to have callers, and I believe if I were you, I'd wait until you are 18 and then surely by that time, your parents will not object. Avoid sweets and rich food. Exercise as much as possible. Say "How do you do" or just repeat the boy's name to whom you are being introduced.

Miss Jewett will answer questions for readers of The Republican on any subject. Address all communications to Miss Jewett, care this paper, and the answers will appear in this column. tf

Cook green tomatoes two hours until well done, stirring all the time so as not to burn, then mix in ingredients. Cook 1 hour or till done put in jars and seal.

Grease Spots

Even when there is cream in the coffee, the stains can be removed from the most delicate silk or woolen fabric by brushing the spots with pure glycerine and rinsing in lukewarm water.

MERITONE ONLY THING TO HELP

Nervous Troubles of Seven Years Gone and She Now Sleeps Soundly

"For seven years I suffered and I couldn't find a thing that would help me but one bottle of this new medicine, Meritone, has made me feel like a new person," said Mrs. Mary Arledge, of 908 Union Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.

"Nervousness was my chief trouble," Mrs. Arledge continued. "I dreaded to go to bed at night because I couldn't sleep. I just tossed and rolled about the bed all night, and, of course, when morning came, I felt so badly I could hardly get up."

"Meritone was recommended so highly that finally I started taking it. 'One bottle of Meritone has done me more good than any other medicine I ever tried, and has made me feel like a new person. The nervousness has left me entirely, and I can go to bed at night now and sleep soundly until morning. The tired, worn-out feeling I used to have is all gone and I feel good all the time.'" crime through the destruction of the bodies by fire.

Meritone is sold exclusively in Seymour by Maxon's Pharmacy.

Lying beside the ruins of the iron bed was found a coal oil can by Messrs. Bevers and Jacksons and it is believed the contents of this can was used by Blair in kindling the fire. All indications point to the fact that the flames started in the bedroom of the three room residence and at the corner therein where the bed was located. Later in the morning a hatchet is said to have been found lying beside the bed but the flames had destroyed all evidence of blood stains if this was the weapon chosen by Blair with which to commit the double murder.

Evidence introduced at the coroner's inquest also went to show that those who viewed the skull of Mrs. Blair early this morning stated that they saw a crushed condition on the forehead that led them to believe that she had been struck by some dull instrument such as the round portion of a hatchet or hammer. When the coroner reached the scene the fire had caused the skull bone to shatter and this is also said to indicate that the bone had been fractured or it would have held together even after being subjected to the intense heat.

The missing husband and father was last seen about 9 o'clock Wednesday night by Night Watchman Horatio Bevers when he came to the power house where the latter was on duty. At the time Mr. Bevers merely thought he had come to the mill to loaf with him for a short time and he says that much of the conversation indulged in by Blair during his visit was about his baby, for whom he apparently had the deepest love. On leaving the mill Mr. Bevers supposed Blair went back to his home.

John Bailey Blair was born in Kentucky 25 years ago. He came to the Indiana quarry district about four years ago and has since labored in the various quarries around Oolitic. He was united in marriage last December to Miss Gertie Staggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Staggs, of East Oolitic. Six weeks ago a son Charles was born to their union and the family last Sunday moved from East Oolitic into the residence which was destroyed by fire this morning.

It is said that Blair had been known to mistreat his wife at times but he never threatened to murder her in so far as is known.

He had recently been in the employ of the Furst-Kerber Company as a laborer in their quarry but did not work Wednesday afternoon, having layed off at noon.

As soon as the tragedy was discovered this morning Sheriff A. J. Lee and Coroner E. E. Mitchell were called to the burned home. After viewing the charred remains of the mother and infant son Dr. Mitchell rendered a verdict in keeping with the evidence above set out.

A search of the country for miles around during the day by the officials and a posse of indignant citizens composed of hundreds from the quarry district, has failed to reveal the whereabouts of Blair and he has been swallowed up by earth, as it were, since disappearing from the mill about 9 o'clock last night after concluding his conversation with Mr. Bevers.

Inability to locate him has in no way discouraged the officials and their assistants, however, and they

Peter's Great Confession.
Matt. 16:13-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ the son of the living God.—Matt. 16:16.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 8:27-33; Luke 9:18-25; John 6:66-69.
PRIMARY AND JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter confessed.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—What it means to confess Christ.
SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The Messiahship of Jesus.

The time has now come for the King to take account of his ministry.

This confession in some sense marks the turning point in Christ's ministry. Hereafter it is more restricted to his disciples. Two reasons are sufficient why this should be (vv. 1-12): (1) The Pharisees and Sadducees show their attitude towards him in their demand for a sign. His answer is that none shall be given save that of his death and resurrection, as symbolized in the experiences of the Prophet Jonah. (2) The disciples show their inability to understand the spiritual nature of his teaching. When he warned them of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees they understood him to refer to bread, when he meant their doctrine. It was at this crisis when Christ turned from the nation which had rejected him, that Peter made this great confession. It was made in the borders of Caesarea-Philippi, practically Gentile territory.

I. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).
Two questions of Christ provoked this confession:

1. The question as to the opinion of the people concerning him.

They recognized him as a teacher or a prophet of more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. Some think he is only a man; others, that he is a great teacher, but nothing more. Had he been content with this he would not have been molested in Jerusalem, for the Jews willingly acknowledged him as more than a human teacher. It was his persistent claim to be the God-man, the Son of God, that sent him to the cross.

2. The second question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough; there must be definite, correct, and personal belief in him.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 17-20).

Peter had made a noble confession of Christ, so now Christ confesses him. If we confess Christ he will confess us (Matt. 10:32, 33). Christ declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body to the members of which he will give eternal life, and to whose hands he will entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. The keys entrusted to him were used on the day of Pentecost, and again in the case of Cornelius. Association in this new body cannot be broken by death, for the gates of hades shall not prevail against it. This body, the church, is of a heavenly origin, a heavenly calling, and a heavenly inheritance.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).

This was, no doubt, startling to the disciples. They did not realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory on the hill-top beyond. A new hope then filled his breast (1 Peter 1:3, 4). Victory through death is yet the stumbling block of many. Many are stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. All such are under the control of the devil (v. 23). Salvation by blood, the devil hates.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-27).

To follow Christ means suffering. To follow him is to turn one's back upon the world. Life can only be saved by losing it. If we are going to be Christians we must share Christ's suffering. We cannot go to heaven on flowery beds of ease.

1. There must be denial of self (v. 24). There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self. Self-denial is practiced everywhere by all people, but only the disciples of Christ or Christian people deny self. Christ takes the place of self.

2. "Take up his cross." This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God. To do our duty will mean suffering (2 Tim. 3:12).

3. Follow Christ. This means to have the mind of Christ, to do like Christ. All such shall be rewarded when Christ comes in glory.

intend to continue the search until he is found. It is generally believed that he will head back to his old Kentucky home and officials there have been notified to be on the lookout for him and arrest him on sight and notify local authorities.

If discovered in the vicinity of his home or brought back there soon many believe that a lynching would hurriedly follow. Mob spirit has been running high since the discovery of the crime and there are said to be hundreds who would delight in an opportunity to execute him if it is definitely learned that he murdered his family and then set fire to the home.

A description of John Bailey Blair secured by local officials this morning is as follows: Twenty-five years of age, five feet, six inches in height, weight 120 pounds, dark complexion, dark hair and eyebrows, keen black eyes, slim peaked face, one upper gold tooth in front. When last seen was wearing working clothes, shoes and cap.

As soon as Coroner Mitchell had viewed the remains this morning they were taken to the Frank Staggs residence at East Oolitic, arriving there about noon today. Definite funeral arrangements can not be made until relatives out of the county are heard from.

Mrs. Blair is survived by her parents, four sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Beddie Murphy, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Janie Bundy, of Colum-

IN MISERY FOR YEARS

Mrs. Courtney Tells How She Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oskaloosa, Iowa.—"For years I was simply in misery from a weakness and awful pains—and nothing seemed to do me any good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and got relief right away. I can certainly recommend this valuable medicine to other women who suffer, for it has done such good work for me and I know it will help others if they will give it a fair trial."

—Mrs. LIZZIE COURTNEY, 108 8th Ave., West, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Why will women drag along from day to day, year in and year out, suffering such misery as did Mrs. Courtney, when such letters as this are continually being published. Every woman who suffers from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, nervousness, or who is passing through the Change of Life should give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c.

The kiddies can take it in perfect safety, too. No bad after-effects. Standard half a century. 60c, and $1.20 a bottle. At your druggist.

Don't Continue Constipated

Don't let your bowels bulldoze your system. Make them function regularly—keep the body cleansed of waste matter with Dr. King's New Life Pills.

Biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, dizziness, furred tongue, bad breath—think of the embarrassments and discomforts traceable to constipation. How easily they're rectified by the occasional use of Dr. King's New Life Pills. Move the bowels smoothly but surely. Try them tonight. All druggists—25c, as usual.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arcline at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

ened members of that household. Both Mr. Jackson and his son, George, who is employed by the Citizens Trust Company of this city, accompanied Mr. Bevers back to the scene of the fire, which by this time had totally destroyed the building. Through the moonlight they were able to see in the smoldering embers the remains of two bodies, lying side by side amidst the ruins of an iron bedstead that had been located in the corner of one of the rooms. Water was carried from the mill and thrown on the embers that were destroying the bodies but the heads and limbs had already been burned off and only the trunks were left to depict the horrible happening.

The positions of the bodies, which were lying face upward on the ruined bed, immediately caused suspicion of murder to arise, there being no evidence to indicate that the young mother and her babe had endeavored to escape from the burning building.

At first it was believed that the charred remains discovered by Mr. Bevers on his early visit to the burning home were those of the husband and father. Blair is said to have been a man who saved his money and usually kept what he had accumulated on his person. Suspicion naturally led to the belief that he had been murdered with robbery as the motive but when it was discovered that the mother and babe were the ones who perished in the flames and the husband and father could not be found, a new belief arose and remains in evidence.

The badly disfigured condition of the bodies made it impossible for any mark of violence to be discovered but the fact that the husband and father is missing has caused everyone to cling to the belief that he murdered his wife and infant son and then undertook to cover up his
